

Information about Authors

Ward Blondé is an engineer physics and doctor in Applied Biology. He has a strong background in mathematics, logic, and bioinformatics, and currently works as a bioinformatician in a private company in Belgium. Since 2015, he publishes about a theory in metaphysics and theology. Contact: wardblonde@gmail.com.

David Hernández Castro is a doctoral student of philosophy at National Distance Education University (UNED) and holds a Master in philosophy from UNED (Spain). He is a member of the Philosophy Department of the UNED and the International Research Chair in Critic Hermeneutic (HERCRITIA). His areas of research include ancient philosophy, political philosophy and political ecology. His latest papers are "Aphrodite Ζείδωρος: The Subversion of the Myth of Prometheus and Pandora in Empedocles," Schole, Vol. 13.2, 2019, 430-450, and "Buscando a Empédocles. Vivir y morir como un cantor de Apolo," in Alvarado, J. and Hernández de la Fuente, D. (eds.), Morir antes de morir. Ritos de iniciación y experiencias místicas en la historia de la cultura, Dykinson, Madrid, 2019, 117-142. Contact: dhernandez@fsof.uned.es.

Landon Frim is an Assistant Professor of Philosophy at Florida Gulf Coast University. His research focuses on the Enlightenment rationalism of Baruch Spinoza and its implications for today's politics. His work has appeared in the journals Epoché, Society and Politics, Teaching Ethics, and Ethics, Policy, and Environment. He has also written for popular outlets including Jacobin Magazine, The New Republic, Salvage Magazine, and Inside Higher Ed. His recent textbook, The Moral Labyrinth (2019), explores canonical ethical texts through novel thought experiments. Contact: Dfrim@fgcu.edu.

Kazi A S M Nurul Huda is a Ph.D. student at the Department of Philosophy, University of Oklahoma, USA. His dissertation focuses on the issue of (global) epistemic injustice and the theory of recognition. To pursue his Ph.D., currently, he is on study leave from the Department of Philosophy, University of Dhaka, Bangladesh where he works as Assistant Professor. His primary philosophical interest lies in the areas of epistemology, ethics, political philosophy, and the intersection of the three. He also takes an interest in philosophies with respect to development, and environment. Contact: huda@du.ac.bd.

Seungbae Park is a philosophy professor at Ulsan National Institute of Science and Technology in the Republic of Korea. He received his Ph.D. from the University of Arizona in 2001, having specialized in philosophy of science under the guidance of Prof. Richard Healey. He taught at the University of Arizona, the University of Maryland, and POSTECH before coming to his current institution in 2009. He served as an anonymous referee for such journals as Journal of Philosophy, Philosophy of Science, Synthese, and the British Journal for the Philosophy of Science. Contact: nature@unist.ac.kr.

Symposion

Rajesh Sampath is currently Associate Professor of the Philosophy of Justice, Rights, and Social Change at Brandeis University. He completed his Ph.D. at the University of California, Irvine in the humanities where he studied under the French philosopher Jacques Derrida, the founder of deconstruction. His areas of specialization centered on the philosophy of history, historical time and epochal shifts. Subsequently, he did a postdoctoral fellowship at the University of California, Berkeley and a D.A.A.D. research scientist fellowship in Germany where he published articles in continental European philosophy. Contact: rsampath@brandeis.edu.