

Information about Authors

Michael F. Duggan has a doctorate from Georgetown University in United States History with minors in Modern Europe and Western Philosophy. He has taught at Georgetown University and in New York University's Washington, D.C. program and has guest lectured at American University and Howard University. In 2011-12 he was the Supreme Court Fellow. In 2021 he retired from the Supreme Court of the United States after 30 years of service in various positions. He has written on a broad range of topics from the philosophy of law to foreign affairs and blogs at realismandpolicy.com. He lives in the Washington, D.C. area. Contact: mikeduggan9@gmail.com.

Minxing Huang is a philosopher specializing in Ancient Greek philosophy, with a focus on Presocratic thought, metaphysics, epistemology, and logic. She holds a Ph.D. (Honors) in Philosophy from the University of Kansas, where her research explored Aristotle's syllogistic logic and its application in interpreting Plato's dialogues. Her work has been presented at international conferences, including the XXIV World Congress of Philosophy and the American Philosophical Association. Her recent publications examine Aristotle's categorical syllogistic and its relation to knowledge. Contact: hmx920613@gmail.com.

Seungbae Park is a philosophy professor at UNIST in the Republic of Korea. He received his Ph.D. from the University of Arizona in 2001. He taught at the University of Arizona, the University of Maryland, and POSTECH. He published about 80 papers in SCI-level international journals, and a book titled Embracing Scientific Realism in Springer in 2022. He served as an anonymous referee for SCI-level international journals, such as Journal of Philosophy, Philosophy of Science, and Ethics. The drafts of his published works are available at <https://philpeople.org/profiles/seungbae-park>. Contact: veritistic@gmail.com.

Moreno Paulon is an integrated researcher at CHAM, Centro de Humanidades and a PhD candidate in epistemology at the Universidade NOVA de Lisboa - FCSH. He obtained a bachelor's degree in contemporary literature with a research on Albert Camus' philosophy of the absurd, and a master's degree in anthropological sciences, having conducted field research in South-East Asia and Greece. His research interests include the philosophy of science, gender studies, cultural anthropology, psychology and literary theory. Contact: moreno.paulon@gmail.com.

Victor Peterson II is an assistant professor of the Humanities and Social Sciences at The Cooper Union for the Advancement of Science and Art. Hailing from Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, Peterson's work in Black Cultural Studies develops Articulation theory: how relations of dominance and subordination emerge and evolve through and against the networks of norms and institutions that structure sociocultural and political movements. Currently, Peterson's working on a book project positing a relation between sound and social movement that utilizes mosh pits as a model to analyze socio-cultural formations as complex adaptive systems in alignment with Black scholars' theorizing movements as collective improvisations. www.vpii.us / <https://orcid.org/0000-0001-5953-2149>. Contact: petersonv@gmail.com.

Symposion

Lucy Alsip Vollbrecht received her PhD in Philosophy from Vanderbilt University in 2023. She is now the Civil Society Initiative Postdoctoral Fellow at Washington University in St. Louis. Her research interests include Ancient Philosophy, Feminist Philosophy, and Social Epistemology. Her recent work appears in Argumentation, Philosophy & Rhetoric, and Signs: A Journal of Women in Culture and Society. Contact: vlucy@wustl.edu.